Dunno, but I want to play it, if they fix the imbalance, it's going to be fun to play. I only played up to Act IV with normal difficulty. Re: new player bug . I have no idea about this, I don't play USW2, I don't know what he's talking about. I enjoyed your blog post, where did you get the screenshots from? I have finally managed to play it after buying all the items from one of the various sites in Diablo 3 lol. The first 25% of the game has lots of fun and is kinda okay but after that, things get difficult. In fact you need to find 3 really good items to save yourself from dying. The healer in my party were clearly not prepared for an end game experience. They will die in seconds if they come across 10 zombies with a group of monsters. The first step should be the first to dispel the invisibility and then spam your attack, if they survive and you have enough potions and health then you can heal them and then proceed with your melee attack. Unfortunately after that they will die in seconds. I was able to survive with some enemies after taking out a few weak NPC with my melee and found out that all of them were a bit overleveled (The monsters used to be harder than the current enemies in the level). In short, I like the game but as I mentioned above I don't think you should stop you marketing, keep the game alive and bring in more players. I will keep playing though. Where can I find some of the best In-game Items, i'm looking to make a new character after i finish Diablo 2, and i want to try to make my character a better tank and i have about $50 in cash, any ideas where i can find the best items. Hmm, I haven't played yet myself, but I'd like to recommend you to check out I haven't been there in a long time so the prices might be a bit inflated, but it still contains most of the golden items that you might need to create a good end game character. I read an article about a new diablo, I think it was even on www.euroworld.com. Anyway after 2 days I just can't wait 82157476af
